

Adorned Brood, Furor Teutonicus

The moon
lets proudly glisten the warpaint and spikes
the knights
they stand
over there
watching in the dark
are fearless
while they think
That could be the last beautiful night.

Be willing to die and to kill the swords, axes and shields are shining dreadful in the moonlight then they raise their fists and scream their warcry

Furor Teutonicus

The horde blows the enemies the swords are drilled into the bastard's bodies axes chop off and split their heads the battle was won

The battlefield
was a sea of blood and pain