

Adrian Belew, Dinosaur

Long ago and far away in a different age when I was a dumb young guy fossilized photos of my life then illustrate what an easy prey I must have been standing in the sun, idiot savant something like a monument

I'm a dinosaur, somebody is digging my bones

Ignorance has always been something I excel in followed by naivet and pride doesn't take a scientist to see how any clever predator could have a piece of me standing in the sun, idiot savant

When I look back on the past it's a wonder I'm not yet extinct all the mistakes and bad judgments I made nearly pushed me to the brink it doesn't pay to be too nice, it's the one thing I have learned still I made my fossil bed now I toss and turn
