

After Midnight Project, Disconnect

Something has to change
We're falling further down the drain tonight
Flashing lights on billboard signs trashy clubs
And careless minds we're alone
This filthy floor's a lonely bed
While traffics roaring in my head again
I disconnect in to a dream
In a life that would seem
Just to real and overseen
I don't need another friend
(I'm trying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
I don't need another friend
Maybe we're not as well
Put together as we thought
Oh well
I'm dancing in the pouring rain
With a smile and a touch of pain
It's Hell
I Disconnect I know tried
But no one else sees out
I'm caving in and I'm giving up
What else can I do?
I gave everything to you
The demons, the gods will have their way
I don't need another friend
(I'm trying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
I don't need another friend
All I am is wrong
And All we had is gone
I don't need another friend
(I'm dying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
And I don't need another friend
