

After Midnight Project, More To Live For

When I Grow old
And my hair turns gray
And my teeth start to decay
When my skin changes shade
Will you still look at me the same
When I can't pick you up
'Cause I'm just old to walk
When I try to sing into your ear
But I'm too weak to talk
Will you love me the same?
Can you tell me there's more to live for
Can you show me there's more than this
When the sunlight goes away
I will miss another day
Show me another way out
There's a garden that waits for you
And I, I will be waiting there, patiently
Hoping that you'll remember me
Will you forget about me?
Or will you forget about us?
Will you forget about me?
Can you tell me there's more to live for
Can you show me there's more than this
When the sunlight goes away
I will miss another day
Show me another way out
(There's more to live for)
If I had it all, I would lose direction
If I had it all, I'd forget how to crawl
If I had it all, I'd fall back to yesterday
If I had it all
Can you tell me there's more to live for
Can you show me there's more than this
When the sunlight goes away
I will miss another day
Show me another way out
Can you tell me there's more to live for
Can you show me there's more than this
When the sunlight goes away
I will miss another day
Show me another way out
Dare you to let go of me now
When I Grow old
And my hair turns gray
Will you still look at me the same
