

After The Fall, Me + You = Breakdown

Teacher, teacher, please help me solve,
This equation I can not resolve.

The chalk has run out, my nails are blunt,
I sit at the front.

And I just can't make it to the equal sign.
And I just can't put the words in just one line.
And I just can't feel the things I used to feel.
And I just can't see what's fake or real.

Me plus you equals breakdown.
Me plus you equals breakdown.

Down.

Calculator, I must confess,
This number theory, it's such a mess.
Give me the answers, fill in the blanks,
Clear the screen.

And I just can't make it to the equal sign.
And I just can't put the words in just one line.
And I just can't feel the things I used to feel.
And I just can't see what's fake or real.

Me plus you equals breakdown.
Me plus you equals breakdown.

Down.

Down.

Down.

Down.

And I just can't make it to the equal sign.
And I just can't put the words in just one line.
And I just can't feel the things I used to feel.
And I just can't see what's fake or real.

Me plus you equals breakdown.
Me plus you equals breakdown.

Down.