

After The Fall, Room For One More

I wish my room was round; the right angles box me in.
The air is thick in here; no windows open light is dim.
With radiation ray, keeps my feet on common ground.
Time has been delayed; the doors shut don't make a sound.
Stuck here forever
Waiting for the never
There's always room in here for one more.
Don't listen to the wake up call.
I'll still be here just waiting.
There's always room in here for one more.
Don't listen to the wake up call.
I'll still be here just waiting.
The day has come to pass, the night's slowly creeping out.
But I'm the only one, who's up, down, over and out.
If there were only just one more, it would make this room complete.
Then maybe just some how, we'd all get some sleep.
Stuck here forever
Waiting for the never
There's always room in here for one more.
Don't listen to the wake up call.
I'll still be here just waiting.
There's always room in here for one more.
Don't listen to the wake up call.
I'll still be here just waiting.
Stuck here forever
(Stuck here forever)
Stuck here forever
Waiting for the never
(There's always room in here for one more)
Don't listen to the wake up call
I'll still be here just waiting.
There's always room in here for one more.
Don't listen to the wake up call.
I'll still be here just waiting.
Be here just waiting.
