Aga Zaryan, Like a He-Bear and a She-Bear Falli

Our feet are drunk On our wide wandering Like bears with honey They walk slower and slower, humming satiation Let us sit under a tree, my dear We will fall asleep together Like a he-bear by a she- bear I yawn I stretch I stretch out I stretch all over In my body As in a large, luxurious sleeping bag A then I fall Down Down To the bottom of happiness I yearn for the meadow Where our warm kisses Were left in a hollow Of crushed grass I yearn for the forest Where the sleepy eyelashes Of our two sighs embracing Got entangled In the springtime moss
