

Against All Authority, Sacco And Vanzetti

"long live anarchy!" were sacco's last words their cries of freedom were suppressed and they were never heard. guilty only of their beliefs, and their foreign births. no solid concrete evidence of being guilty... cause they weren't. in an atmosphere of defiance of worldwide protests and appeals, they were electrocuted. their only crimes were their ideals. "only with liberty can men rise and be complete. we're the black cats and the terror of many" to all oppressors we bring defeat! they held true to their beliefs until the bitter end. their pointless fucking execution was some kind of sick revenge! fuck you!
