

Air Supply, Late Again

I'm late again, oh how the evening flies
You meet old friends and share the secrets they hide
It's not like me, to be this much unconcerned
The drinks are free, I know this time I will bur

You know you must believe me, it's so good to see you here.
I really tried to get away, it seems like it's been years
I wish you could've warned me, you act like it's the end
Oooooohhhh, I'm late again

So I get home, and nothing there seems the same.
I'm walking slow, and no one remembers my name
I bring a smile, and, saying I'm losing my mind
I realize that you've been wasting my time

You know you must believe me, it's so good to see you here
I really tried to get away, it seems like it's been years
I wish you could've warned me, you act like it's the end
Oooohhhh, I'm late again....Yeah....

REPEAT CHORUS

No one home, yes I'm late again.....
Our love, guess I'll wait again.....

REPEAT
