

Aislin, The Night After Two Sleeps

That's what you meant by forever 736 days and a night like this?
I knew something had to be empty either your promise or chest too bad it had to be both.
And now I know that all I ever knew is gone and it's killing me inside.
But don't worry mama I know I can survive just not like this, just not alone.
I will never give up on you. Now this is life without you. I hope you're doing fine, but I have a confession to make its that this is killing me inside.
Define forever in your own words please. You know I'm not one to give in.
So that's what you meant by forever 736 days and a night like this?
I knew something had to be empty either your promise or chest too bad it had to be both.
And now all I know is that all I ever knew is gone, and it's killing me inside.
But you need to know that there is more to this paper than just lines.
And you know I'm not one to give in I never have been. That's why I'm still holding out still holding on to the past and this rope that you seemed to let go of.
I will never let go. This is something you need to know. I will reassure you.
That I will never give up on you
