

Akira Yamaoka, Your Rain from game Silent Hill 4

Dancing alone again, again, my rain falling
Only the scent of you remains, to dance with me.
Nobody showed me how to return the love you give to me
Mom never holds me, dad loves a stranger more than me.
I never wanted to ever bring you down
All that I need are some simple loving words.
You touched my body once, it burns me, still softly
Never forgets, never again will be, I cry.
Out of my head and I don't know what I found
Over and over I feel it break me down.
On the sidewalks of the city,
Are my screams, just a whisper
Busy people going nowhere,
See me soak in the rain,
No compassion, nothing matters,
My resistance is waiting,
Like a flower in the basement waiting for a lonely death.
Out of my head and I don't know what I found
Over and over I feel you bring me down.
On the sidewalks of the city,
Are my screams, just a whisper
Busy people going nowhere,
See me soak in the rain,
No compassion, nothing matters,
My resistance is waiting,
Like a flower in the basement waiting for a lonely death.
