

Akrasia, Share My Dreams

asked for a little bit of help to write this song he said sorry i dont do that kind of thing no more, so i moved on i took a walk and put a pebble in my shoe picked an apple from a tree to bring it back to you and all i know is when im with you all the clouds just melt away sorta like a gold star on an otherwise gray day the more i look i know there's more for me to find then whats left behind every friday night you know you'll find me here bucket full of deep fried chicken, case of alkometric beer there's this girl i know, she got my mind in such a mess dont know if i want her soul or just the contents of her dress sit with me a while here and watch how things become just the right collection of the parts of all the sums just have another drink, well see if we can't find what's on your mind spider spider somersaulter make it last a little longer one down but theres the seed to concecrate the soul disease all i want is something sacred, litle something more than inbetween how bout you? think you'll stick around to share my dreams

(solo)

i wish i had a script to follow, wish i knew just what to do maybe i can be the guy who finally gets to tame the shrew well, all i want is something sacred, litle something more than inbetween how bout you? think you'll stick around to share my dreams
