Alan Parsons, Limelight

I can see the glow of a distant sun I can feel it inside Maybe this day could be the one

I can hear the roar of a distant crowd They are waiting for me Calling my name Shouting out loud

Holding on isn't always easy I ain't gonna change my mind

Limelight you were all I ever wanted
Since it all began
Limelight shining on me
Telling the world who I am
Limelight don't let me slip right through your fingers
There's a long way to fall
After the years of waiting
I'm gonna show them all

I can see the world in a different light Now it's easy to say Where I went wrong What I did right

I can hear the beat of a different drum Take it all in my stride Hold my head high Second to none

Holding on wasn't always easy Nothing can change my mind

Limelight you were all I ever wanted since it all began Limelight shining on me telling the world who I am Limelight don't let me slip right through your fingers There's a long way to fall After the years of waiting I'm gonna show them all Maybe the role's not easy, maybe the prize is small After the years of waiting I'm gonna show them all
