

Alanis Morissette, The Guy Who Leaves

Dad, oh don't get up, I beg you to sit tight Sweet girl, I'll be a ghost girl, forget it I am fine

If anything a witnessing is all I needed that night

Until I get what I'm to get you'll keep being compelled to flee Until I out this false story you'll keep playing "the guy who leaves";

Brother, oh, brother, solo you did bust out All I knew was you didn't invite me, so begins themes of self-doubt

There is nothing as harrowing as how I translate backs

Until I get what I'm to get
you'll keep being compelled to flee
Until I out this false story
you'll keep playing "the guy who leaves";

Baby, oh partner, how well you've played this part Similar, oh how familiar, reluctant truth you impart

And how you serve necessity: repeat 'til she sees light";

Until I get what I'm to get
you'll keep being compelled to flee
Until I out this false story
you'll keep playing "the guy who leaves";.
