

Albert Hammond, The Road To Understanding

Albert Hammond

It Never Rains in Southern California

The Road To Understanding

You had your faults, I had mine. Nothing's perfect, is it, baby?

If we'd given it the time, could have worked things out, well, maybe

Came to thinkin' what the hell

Not to dwell up on the problems

Our bodies came together well

And that was all we cared

More and more and more and more

More of the people gave up looking for

Avenues to happiness. You hear them say

"The road to understanding was just too far away."

While we watched the little things getting out of all proportion

There was so much more at stake, but we paid it no attention

I suppose if we had tried

We'd have saved the pot from boiling

But we went and let it slide

Until we lost control

And more and more and more and more

More of the people gave up looking for

Avenues to happiness. You hear them say

"The road to understanding was just too far away."

What was bad got worse, what was good just got forgotten

Could have stopped it there and then, but, girl, we didn't cotton

In the end we didn't care

All the love flew out the window

And I guess, just like you said

It all got outta hand

And more and more and more and more

More of the people gave up looking for

Avenues to happiness. You hear them say

"The road to understanding was just too far away."

More and more and more and more

More of the people gave up looking for

Avenues to happiness. You hear them say

"The road to understanding was just too far away."

More and more and more and more

More of the people gave up looking for

Avenues to happiness. You hear them say...