

Alesana, Beautiful In Blue

silence screams, "you're just so beautiful in blue" breathless stares escape your undying eyes are you blind to my sorrow and sympathy?
a piece of me will die with your last breath... this will all be over soon for you are so lost inside glazed eyes long for the waves' embrace drawn to an end so near...

far away are days when you smiled just to hear my voice
why are you trying to run away?
my love, I can't find the words to tell you...

drown all of your fantasies with your final broken promise silent angel crashes through sky, having lost sight of the stars

regail me with your tales of lonely, bittersweet loss giving up comes to easy when hope is gone I'll walk away so you can choke on your dying breath but if you side against me, to hell with you...

far away are days when you smiled just to hear my voice
why are you trying to run away?
my love, I can't find the words to tell you...

the fear has stolen her heart as she wakes from her dream treacherous ink finds her lungs, seizing her screams numb hands now reach too late to take back the light

far away are days when you smiled just to hear my voice
why are you trying to run away?
my love, I can't find the words to tell you...
far away are days when you smiled... seas cry out butchering this tragic soul without hope their frailty is broken and now fades into the blue...