

Alesana, Pathetic, Ordinary

she haunts me in dreams I see her silhouette dance across landscapes of golden light and autumn
...in my dreams...
her soft eyes see through my tortured soul vanishing any hope for fantasy the thing I'd give, to prove myself to her, to make her see... jaded eyes awake as her selfish words rain from such placid lips still I kiss her silken flesh frigid air leaves me breathless foolish agony fills my lungs as I try to scream for her I confess...I scare myself through the howling wind, on my knees, I cry
...listen to me...
I'm broken by her silence to a love unseen blood soaked feathers rained down my wingless angel so broken falls gracefully from the sky to waiting arms...to waiting arms... frigid air leaves me breathless
foolish agony fills my lungs as I try to scream for her
I confess...I scare myself
through the howling wind, on my knees, I cry
...listen to me...
such foolish agony fills my lungs as I try to scream for her jaded eyes wake to the sounds of my voice as I scream to her in dreams I've seen her silhouette dance across golden light and autumn...in my dreams...