you have been sleeping in this place the moon's light has fallen the nights have remained for me to live, I need to be sad just like a cocoon

I want to sleep like a butterfly these memories

come flying out tomorrow as if they havent been waiting from this momentary arrangement not being it

I will kiss your eyes, softly from this, I can see myself alone but in my many dreams ah, at least you gently wish to visit me

the snow has piled up thickly as it waits for the buried spring

I am not chilly as I hold you while you cry the branches are ringing in this violent cold wind the flame of love will freeze in very small pieces

I want to offer
these beautiful memories as you accept for me who I am you wrap up in these clothes of love I will add on, forevermore and they will not come undone with this hand

my fickle happiness isnt disappearing in this house so I will softly kiss your eyes
but the time is changing ah, please,
turn into an arrow
and pass like praying
