

Alisha's Attic, Push It All Aside

We have got to stop fighting
We have got to learn to get along
We have got to know for a relationship in heaven
We've got to tame the devils on our tongues
Oh it gets harder every time, we both cross the invivable line
It feels like we're on two different planets
We're broken who's gonna fix us, and put us back together again

Chorus

So let's push it all aside

Take a swallow of pride

And realise

That nothing could be sweeter than loving each other

If we forget who was wrong and who's right

Yeah let's push it all aside

take a swallow of pride

and realise

that nothing could be sweeter than loving each other

if we forget who was wrong and who's right

And put our ammunition to one side

We have got to understand exploding isn't ever gonna close the gap between us

it's too wide

Oh it gets harder every day

We spit back at each other and say

It feels like we're on two different planets

But when all the damage is done

It's too late to be sorry

Chorus

So lets get some understanding

(ohhhh)

Just take a deep big breath and say

You can forget all the words I said

Keep them far away

Cos they don't mean what I menat

Now they're gone anyway

(ah)
