Alkaline Trio, Death Bed

Calling all cars or coroners, we got a dead one here And anybody else receiving this, the west coast is far from clear Like a time bomb, a sudden death It's gonna find you when you least expect It's gonna leave you the emptiest feeling inside They found me face down in the street On the night you left to find, another place to sleep In rain and regret They said they tried everything but it was no use Yeah, they tried everything and everyone but you Falling like stars into the ocean black, we're gonna disappear And anything left recognizable is swept away with fear We got heart stripped in time release We got the know-how and the elbow grease We got our victim all cut up down here on the floor They found me face down in the street On the night you left to find, another place to sleep In rain and regret They said they tried everything but it was no use Yeah, they tried everything and everyone but you One but you, one but you They found me face down in the street On the night you left to find, another place to sleep In rain and regret They said they tried everything but it was no use Yeah, they tried everything and everyone but you
