All Together Separate, Candle

There's a candle burning in a room There are shadows dancing on the walls In the dim light everything is gray But the flame it keeps the night away There's a cold wind blowing through the room And a darkness waiting to consume If I see the light then I know everything's okay On and on the candle takes a blow Pressing on through another candle's smoke In the dim light everything is gray But the flame it keeps the night away There's a cold wind blowing through the room And a darkness waiting to consume If I see the light then I know everything's okay If I see the light then I can make it another day Cause I'm still burning Burning wild at the sight of You I'm still burning But I'm lost without You I'm still burning Burning bright at the sight of You I'm still burning
