

All Together Separate, I'm Coming Back Again

Through the anger of it all
And though you've seen peace crumble and fall
I just wanted to let you know that I'm coming soon
While there's war on every side
You can believe that neither death nor life
Not height or depth or any created thing can separate our love
I'm coming back again
Though it might sound crazy
It might seem strange to some
I've always been there
I'm coming back again
I know you wonder if it's too late
Cause I read your news today
I always knew this day would come
When I'd restore your innocence
And you would run into my arms again
And how it breaks my heart to see you cry
Why don't you let me fill that whole inside
Just call my name, call my name and I'll be there
It said you need me
It said you were filled with pain
It said you'd recover soon, I don't know if I can wait that long
It said you thought I went away
But I've only been preparing a place
So that someday soon we could be together forever