

Alloise, Tell Me of Fire

city in the afternoon took away the morning gloom walk the street down to the corner there we're standing face to face I adore you, tell me of fire summer sun that burns my skin fearless soul that lies within let us run fast to the ocean with your hand in my hand sweet and bitter emotion do you remember us crossing the lines chasing the shadows and reaching our heights let us be growing let us be new yes I'm talking to you give me a reason a song I would sing pray to the Lord for the joy that he brings read me a book that will lift spirits higher tell me of fire once I was lost deep in the woods betrayed by my friends being chased by the wolves crying for help, burning the roof covering myself with my heart bulletproof carrying the vision that lives in my soul meeting my enemy losing control he made me stronger he lifted me higher that's who I am now so tell me of fire
