

Allred, When You Fall

Say your prayers and cross your fingers
I know it's hard to trust someone you hardly know
Don't be ashamed to be untrusting
I want to earn it. I don't want to learn it
By taking it slow
And I'll be, right behind you, holding you, catching you when you fall
Close your eyes, did you feel that?
It's something we could only know and can't find the words for
So stay right there, and I'll come back for you
To make things right I'm here tonight
I'm at your door.
And I'll be right behind you, holding you, catching you when you fall
And if I died right now, I'd die happy, I'd die happy
But I want to take you with me, when I go
And I'll be right behind you, holding you, catching you
