

Altar, Holy Mask

A perfect member of society
That is what you want us to believe They say a christian celebrity
There's nothing wrong - in your own conceit Rely on trust
Calvinist
Deny your lust
Calvinist
You say God is everywhere, he sees from above and at the end he will judge us all He has given you the light, you represent The force that hides us from the fall
But you're on the edge, you stumble yourself Satan has got you by the balls
So you push yourself, and he will forgive when you make the final call It is not the God himself who should be ashamed Stupid christian motherfucker you're the one to blame
You can't always hide, behind your holy mask
The day has come to speak the truth
You children will grow old, and won't be afraid to tell about their distorted youth
