

Altar, Pro Jagd

From the beginning, man walked the earth Followed needs instinctly Searching food, he created ways to fight his biggest enemy His fear of death, made him skilled to hunt down a perfect prey for centuries, milleniums man survived until this day But now - it has to change man has found - better ways To indulge - his basic needs and keep te human race alive
The only animal allowed to kill is the beast that man - has inside Two centuries, of industry made man think differently To kill for living, the search for flesh stood for immorality
And so he believed, the instinct died
The hunt became inferior certain groups critisize
In every man's a carnivore Kill the species - that dominate Kill the hunter - and it's too late Due to man's mistakes nature lost it's balance
Our environment needs an interference
