

Altaria, Will To Live

I am too young to die
Yet I seem to be too frightened to live
Is this my destiny
To dwell in this cave of misery
My body is filled with scars
From the battles of my past
Voices are calling me
But still I can not seem to move
Towards the bright white light
Where my wings will learn to fly
So I raise my head and I wait
What tomorrow holds for me
When your will to live is gone
And the child of love is lost
Time is your only friend and hope
When your will to live is gone
And the shadow carries on
Time will bring back the joy and the will to live
Why is my days so dark
And when I climb I fall back down
Into the big black whole
Created by my soul
So I raise my head and I wait
What the future holds for me
When your will to live is gone
And the child of love is lost
Time is your only friend and hope
When your will to live is gone
And the shadow carries on
Time will bring back the joy and the will to live
[solo]
When your will to live is gone
And the child of love is lost
Time is your only friend and hope
When your will to live is gone
And the shadow carries on
Time will bring back the joy
When your will to live is gone
And the child of love is lost
Time is your only friend and hope
When your will to live is gone
And the shadow carries on
Time will bring back the joy and the will to live