

Amandine, For All The Marbles

This is where our hearts collide and I always make you cry
The price you pay for taking sides in only one dimension and how the tension breaks

Their words are only make believe 'cause even perfection bleeds through crackled imagery
The terrifying feeling when good intentions fail

This is it
For all the marbles
Where are you
Where are you