

Amiel, Tonight

Open the door
let the dawn inside you've been up all night again and don't remember crying now i'm here for you and the day will break so you don't have to

Dreams have fallen in your head and i know there have been times where i've felt much the same and i would just take another moment stay stay

Understand we'll be okay let me take your hand tonight everything you feel's going to be alright tell me what you need because tonight everything you feel is going to be alright
alright

It's been so long that you can't disguise all the tiny things that tear you up inside you smile so paper thin and grade against the walls within

Dreams have fallen in your head
and i know there have been times where i've felt much the same
and i would just take another moment
stay stay

Understand we'll be okay
let me take your hand tonight
everything you feels going to be alright
tell me what you need
because tonight everything you feel is going to be alright
alright

Alright
alright
alright

Dreams have fallen in your head and i know that you'll be okay
let me take your hand tonight
everything you feels going to be alright
tell me what you need
because tonight everything you feel is going to be alright
alright

Tonight
everything you feel is going to be alright
tell me what you need
because tonight everything you feel is going to be alright
alright