

Amoeba, Cornerpiece

Take a long bath with your toaster
Sit and think about the day that's past
If you're still alive
Boil the kettle while you have your last cigarette
It's the simple joys in life that's sure to see you die

Cause we're all guilty of staring up at the sun
And for taking less than what we're given

Take a long look at yourself
Are you just another piece, a piece of the puzzle
Cause you can be a side piece or cornerpiece
Something special more than one of another million pieces
Let them all stare blindly ahead while you enjoy the view

Cause we're all guilty of staring up at the sun
And for taking less than what we're given
Cause we're all guilty of staring up at the sun
Taking less and blinding our own eyes

The carnival of life
Fooling all but a few
Stop everything for a while
That they have yet to hold

Cause we're all guilty of staring up at the sun
And for taking less than what we're given
Cause we're all guilty of staring up at the sun
Standing idle and blinding our own eyes
