

Amy Grant, Shine All Your Light

Here under heaven's eyes
Down under paradise
Sometimes it seems like we're so small
Here on the shores that reach into infinity
How could we matter much at all?
Would it be enough
If each of us would give our love?
Like sand on a mountain
Rain on a fountain
Shade on a shadow
A breeze in this tornado
Just do what you can
Clap with one hand
And shine all your light in the sun
We live to learn to love
Oh, mercy from above
Amazing grace, like rain comes falling down
We sing our hearts to you
Our song of gratitude
The voice of every soul
How sweet the sound
We can only trust
All our prayers will all add up
Like sand on a mountain
Rain on a fountain
Shade on a shadow
A breeze in this tornado
Just do what you can
Clap with one hand
And shine all your light in the sun
Would it be enough
If each of us would give our love?
Like sand on a mountain
Rain on a fountain
Shade on a shadow
A breeze in this tornado
Just do what you can
Clap with one hand
And shine all your light in the sun
