

Amy Jo Johnson, Crazier Than You

1964, I'll never forget when you walked through that door
Oh God, you were my James Dean
And I, was your dream

19, still dreaming like a baby
That's when I, had our first child
Through our son, I became a woman
And you became a man

You looked at me, and I looked at you
We both smiled, 'cause there's nothing we could do
And I, knew I was crazier than you
Yeah, but you loved me

I was crazier than you, yeah
Baby, you loved me
I was crazier in denim blue
And coffee for you
Crazy

Love
Grows
Sour
So we had to pull through

So I found refuge in God
But I guess you just, found you
I found refuge in God
But I guess you just, found you

You looked at me, and I looked at you
We both smiled, 'cause there's nothing we could do
And I, knew I was crazier than you
Yeah, but you loved me

I was crazier than you, yeah
Baby, you loved me
I was crazier in denim blue
And coffee for you
Baby

I was crazier than summertime
On P-town wine
Crazy

I was crazy
I was crazy

30 years, had now gone by
We sit together silently and cry
And my James Dean, still holds me tight
While thoughts of forgiveness creep through the night
Memories

You look at me, and I look at you
We both smile, 'cause there's nothing we can do
But I, still was crazier than you
But you, love me
You, loved me
