Repeating everyday answering your own questions
While thinking it doesn't matter I kick an empty can into the air

The goal we aim at is different for everyone
I take your hand and we must go forward

We don't need words Because we have the emotion

The percentage of happiness and sadness is different
But people are connected by their hearts
Everyone has different difficult things and painful things
But if you split it all together its one-half

When you're at a stand still and worried
You're at the point of tears and want to run away

Even if I hit against a high wall I'm weak so
I don't have the strength to jump over it

My tears won't dry up Because I have kindness

Even if I stumble and am troubled or have a sad face
People are connected by their hearts
There is anxiety but if we all are able to laugh together
There is a lovely tomorrow for us all

We don't need words Because we have the emotion

The percentage of happiness and sadness is different
But people are connected by their hearts
Everyone has different difficult things and painful things
But if you split it all together its one-half

Even if I stumble and am troubled or have a sad face
People are connected by their hearts
There is anxiety but if we all are able to laugh together
There is a lovely tomorrow for us all
