Ana Johnston, Coming Out Strong

It's strange how everything changed Through your eyes look others we're feeling You've tried You can't see the world the same It's cold falling down Like a shadow on the ground Follow me and I'll take you somewhere lighter Than you've been Come with me I won't let you fall apart Not again And it's been so long Just barely holding on We're coming out strong Hey... You're smiling again Leave the scars the future is waiting You've tried But you can't escape yourself It's cold coming down Like a shadow in the crowd Follow me and I'll take you somewhere lighter Than you've been Come with me I won't let you fall apart Not again And it's been so long Just barely holding on We're coming out strong We're coming out strong Don't you let yourself down? Just through all that all shit out It's the rest of your life And it's starting there Follow me and I'll take you some place lighter Than you've been Come with me I won't let you fall apart Not never again And it's been so long Just barely holding on Follow me Follow me and I'll take you somewhere lighter Than you've been Come with me I won't let you fall apart Never again And it's been so long Just barely holding on We're coming out strong We'll be coming out strong We'll be coming out strong Follow me We'll be coming out strong Been so long Follow me We'll be coming out strong We're coming out strong
