

Anathema, Lightning splits the sky lightning splits the sky..... shining blinding white and here i lie almost asleep reckoning in a place of peace so i take a walk to the top of a hill and the rest of the world is just standing still and i'm happy now that your near to me and i'm happy now that you stayed cos in all those years of wondering you never faltered and you never ever strayed do you know what it is that drives us on?

do you know why it is that we belong? through all those many years of questioning to see just whether i was right or whether i was wrong and i'm happy now that your near to me and i'm happy now that you tried cos in all those many years of wilderness you never turned your back and you never ever lied