

Anders Manga, You Should Be Dead By Now

At the breaking of dawn the mind returns erosion
The return of the phase and the dreadful non-indulgent
I see you walking away, Walking away the seed sown deep within And the frown on your face tells the emptiness placed on you once again

You ask the Vampires to have their Way, On this darkening dreadful day
And the righteous will light your fire, to burn your misery and stoke your cries / With your subtle, the return somehow / I'd Love to Stay but You Should Be Dead by Now

With a twist of your wrist and the smile on your lips is the mission really over?
As the grey in your brain collapses and drains to an absolute Disorder
I see you fading away, fading away the inception of revenge
And the patience you waste on this vulnerable place had you shed your second skin

You ask the Vampires to have their Way, On this darkening dreadful day
And the righteous will light your fire, to burn your misery and stoke your cries / With your subtle, the
return somehow / I'd Love to Stay but You Should Be Dead by Now

They draw the curtain for you / You await your private saint /
All perfect words spilled for you / A Connection bound by fate