Andrew Lloyd Webber, Memory

Midnight, not a sound from the pavement Has the moon lost her memory? She is smiling alone In the lamplight, the withered leaves collect at my feet And the wind begins to moan Memory, All alone in the moonlight I can smile at the old days I was beautiful then I remember the time I knew what happiness was Let the memory live again Every streetlamp seems to beat A fatalistic warning Someone mutters and the street lamp gutters And soon It will be morning Davlight I must wait for the sunrise I must think of a new life And I mustn't give in. When the dawn comes, tonight will be a memory too And a new day will begin Burnt out ends of smokey days The stale cold smell of morning The streetlamp dies, another night is over Another day is dawning... Optional verse: Sunlight through the trees in summer, endless masquerading... Like a flower, as the day is breaking, The memory is fading... Touch me, It's so easy to leave me All alone with my memory Of my days in the sun... If you touch me, you'll understand what happiness is Look, a new day has begun.
