

Andrew Peterson, Windows In The World

So you're sitting at the movies. You're watching how the story finds a way. And you've seen it all before.
And every Sunday morning you can see the people standing in a line. They're so hungry for some more.
It's the way the clouds are burning from the angle of the light as the earth is slowly turning you to more.
I can see the groom is waiting, he's watching for the moment she appears. They are laying down the