

Andy M. Stewart, Heart Of The Home

THE HEART OF YOUR HOME

He still smiles when he recalls
How the gold ring fit her finger
And they made that moment linger
That it's memory'd be strong
They had made a brand new start
Found a whole new way of living
Two voices joined together
Singing no sad songs

When the hard times come around
May you see them through together
Let there be love and laughter
In the heart of your home

Leaving there was always hard
Leaving her was never easy
With those memories to tease you
Summer night's seemed winter's long
But in his heart there was a song
And the only sound worth hearing
Two voices joined together
Singing no sad songs

He still smiles when he recalls
How they counted little fingers
And their gratitude still lingers
That the boy was born strong
They had made a brand new life
Found a whole new way of living
Three voices joined together
Singing no sad songs
