

Ane Brun, Song No. 6

It would be so easy
To sing a song about you
It would be so easy to sing a
Sobby, pink song about you
I would spend three or four lines
On describing your eyes
And then the next three or four lines
On the dimples of your smile
And then I would tell the world
About the way you hold my hand
And they would
They would understand
It is so easy
To sing this song about you
What you are is inside of me
And could easily be
Could easily be
Could be expressed through
This sobby, pink song about you
