

Angels, Im Scared

(Brewster-Neeson-Brewster)

Smokers smoking in the smoking room, fishes in the fish tank sailors waiting for the tide to turn, too bad the ship sank well dressed wax-work wound up to walk stares through the window clown in the alley-way looking for an exit, facing the shadows

I don't patronise you

I dont' try to put you down

I don't criticise you

I ain't the one , I ain't the one to judge

Hard hitting journalist, says he's a communist says he believes in world war III lives in a high-rent luxury apartment, he ain't fooling me

I don't patronise you

I dont' try to put you down

I don't criticise you

I ain't the one , I ain't the one to judge

Reading the newspaers, keeping in touch they steal your secrets, but i ain't the one to judge
