

Angie Aparo, Seed

Sometimes I wonder where you are
Sometimes I wonder how you stand the dark
There is a time for every seed
Once there were two, now there are three
Wrestle your heart pinned to the ground
Is there enough love to go 'round
I wrote this song for the bounty of life
Don't second guess what nature has in mind
Sometimes I wonder who you are
Sometimes I wonder and I just say, yeah
There is a time for every seed
Don't confuse what you want with what will be
Wrestle your heart pinned to the floor
Is there enough love, do you want more?
Say my prayers, I shaved my head
I was looking for reasons to drag my ass out of bed
Selfish world, selfish me
But the politics of this girl will never set us free
I wrote this song for the bounty of life
Don't second guess what nature has in mind
Sometimes I wonder who you are