Angie Aparo, Someday

Mother, why are you cryin'? Only wanna hold you Never gonna scold you no Father, I need someone older To put it all together When you think the world will never mend Someday, I won't be running From the sun and the moon Someday and that day is coming Someday soon In my life, will I be heard? I'm just a little boy in the universe Once or twice, I served But I never got what I deserved Someday, I won't be running From the sun and the moon Someday and that day is coming Someday soon So hard to tell ya So hard to figure out So hard to find these words In my mind Someday, I won't be running From the sun and the moon Someday and that day is coming soon Someday soon Someday soon Someday soon