

Angie Stone, Half A Chance

how do i explain myself, could it be written in a book is it visual?
cuz everything i'm doing girl it just don't seem to be enough oh what am i supposed to do? how am i to show my love for you everything i do, girl its all for you

Girl give me half a chance
I'll give you what you've been missin' in a man
Girl give me half a chance
I'll give you what you've been missin' in a man you got your own set rules and i'm tired of learning from you so excuse me while i get away i'll be better off in my own space ain't it funny how, now, that leaving you want to give me everything but that's not how its supposed to be maybe i'll give you a chance takin' me all that i need in a man what makes you think you can i need a reason (to give you one more chance)

I'm already out the door ain't no need to say no more Cuz i'm not whatcha lookin' for and maybe after everything i'm mad ya left me here it was so obvious you didn't care baby i know you want trust (i'll do my best make it up) baby please listen, don't fuss I'll do whatever it will take (to make up for my mistake)□ I think its time for us

I know it seems like i'm beggin but i don't want you to slip away now ain't it funny when ya learning i shoulda been the one concernin all ya wanna do now is conversate when we all ready know its too late if i don't make it back alright i want to make ya feel alright