

Ann Beretta, Push To Shove

Standing tall, one for all, live our lives, do or die, this time i realize nothing lasts forever stand our ground, tall and proud, never ending lost and found when push comes to shove we all stand together right now, build em up and break em down, leaps and bounds, look to ourselves to bring up the underground, this time, that time who really needs next time?
walking on a prayer like walking on a thin line break the mold, bought and sold, take a chance go for broke this time i realize nothing last forever set in stone, here we go, living large, blowing smoke when push comes to shove we all stand together... we all come down just like our fallen heroes who never end up leaving the ground push comes to shove , we find out what we're made of and live it all over again.
