Annihilator, Denied

welcome to darkness the future is here destruction and pain are my friends explosions and fires that rip through the night surrounded by bodies of death burning, crying, helpless burning, dying, in the dark burning, crying, helpless fire in the sky watching and praying and waiting to die fire in the sky no hope for tommorow, denied smoldering ashes and flames rise again nothing to breathe from this life flesh is beginning to pour in the streets death is my saviour tonight final solution of means to and end a product of science and man no way to take back, just what have we done fire in the sky rules the land