

Antichrisis, Dancing In The Midnight Sun

Farewell, pretty one: It's all over now you've gone After all that we went through, you left me when I needed you
The times we shared, the good and bad, were the best I've ever had, the best years of my life....
Farewell, pretty one: I've put all my faith in you and I can't understand: Did you lie on that night you said you'd never let me go?
Oh, I believed each word you've said
I believed until the end
It's so hard to realize you never wanted me that close by your side
And the snow falls back in time down the hillside on our sledge we'd ride We were laughing in the January sun
And for a moment time stood still as we rode on and on and on....
Still the snow falls on Yule-tide falls forever on that dreary mountainside
And the ghost of our love stands right above: A monument of your smile
And our laughter that died so long ago lingers on and on and on...
Never will I forget our last winter Never will I forget the last winter of our love!
Goodbye, pretty one: You broke my heart twice, now I'm done!
You left me like a dream at the break of dawn and I almost died
And even if you're lying now in someone else's arms I'm still with you in a dream, in dreams of days gone by, the best days of my life Goodnight, my love, goodnight....
For we were dancing in the midnight sun our love became too wild I loved you like a child
The fire went out, went out before dawn and I broke down and cried and I drowned and died
