

Antichrisis, The Sea

Down in the gutter of broken hearts I lie in 8 months time died the love of my life Wounds cut so deep: Will I ever forget that you crept away like a thief in the night?
And I'm standing on top of a mountain Crying bereavement to the stars Will I make my way without you?
Will I ever get over you?
Oh, this room: it seems so strange now cause your laughter still echoes inside Withered roses will never bloom again Carry my weight: Those memories of you!
Once I felt that you loved me These days are over, now we're through Our secret garden lost forever
I never thought you could be that cruel In cold blood you walked away!
I saw a shadow on the shadow of her smile Dream-like strains wake me up at night
The memory of her presence faded long ago like a vanished trail of smoke I try in vain to recollect the time of a love that we once shared Fragments of her voice come haunting me at night
How I wished I could turn back time Her name once written down in my diary now frozen between the lines Gone like last winters frostwork on the window-pane Will I ever understand?
Still there's a shadow on the shadow of her smile Gates of time can never be crossed twice The frostwork of our love melted all away but when we die our songs remain!
And comes the winter of our lives we're trying to keep us warm with the ashes of our fading memories Once frostwork's fallen on the ground
You can never bring it back Its melting without sound Nights are so cold and empty without you Still your scent lingers on in my room Trying to set sails for a new horizon Trying to keep the candle alight!
Still I'm standing on top of the mountain with my soul floating to the stars Songs of love and loss while the night of this new moon does conceal my bleeding heart!
No regrets - I won't look back in anger
Even if it's so hard to forget Will I survive yet another dark winter till snow will melt and rivers do flow?
And our time did not last forever
Though our love it seemed so pure While I face the light of a new day Hope these memories fade away
How I wished they'd fade away!
Take me down to the sea
Take me to my last resort d'Amour
Take me down to the sea
Down there my lover's waiting
She has come for our last rendez-vous Singing, dancing, dreaming Drowning in the waves of tears that never dry

Drowning in the waves of love that never dies