Apostle Of Hustle, My Sword Hand's Anger

one day an angel told me, "your time here is fleeting" behind his back - a pistol - here comes a beating his suit, his silk, flower / but my razor is faster "hey Carlos, you been drinkin' Florida water" looking for a new technique they never believe I put my weapons down another page turns in the book another one falls on their knees to the ground a message from the tiger & Damp; she shivered like chord on a harp: & Quot; the bedroom must be returned to its original sailor & Quot; she reached for the lipstick from her handbag on the edge of the sink & Damp; the sad loves surrounded the lade of perpetual squalor