Aqualung, Just For A Moment

just for a moment everything i treasured was gone just for a moment I faced my life alone oh how i love you just for a moment the world was full of pain just for a moment my luck had finally run out oh how i love you the same thing that blew us together might blow us apart so keep a piece of me precious and close to your heart just for a moment all of my nightmares came true just for a moment my heart was broken in two oh how i need you oh how i'd miss you oh how i love you